WELCOME TO THE WORLD OUTDOORS

Since the early years, innovation has been a key driver to everyone at the Morsø Foundry. In turn, several ground breaking products and building principles has seen the light of day on the beautiful Danish island of Mors. In common with other iron foundries Morsø created the principle of convection, that on the brink of the 1900's set an all new standard for the effectiveness of heating your house using a wood burning stove. Years later, during the 1950's, when central heating paved it's way into most homes, Morsø launched the open fireplace as another new way of bringing warmth and cosy comfort to the Danes. With the launch of the first cast iron BBQ in Denmark, we were aiming to let the Danes enjoy their long summer nights in the garden, with great food and warmth. Today, as well as back then, summer nights could be anything from endless, calm and warm, to the ones when time or circumstance is not suited for the big setup, even if the desire for cooking great food outdoors is still there. For that particular reason, the following pages will present the new Morsø Forno Multi, which is the only product on the market that can be fired with either gas or firewood. This along with being a fantastic pizza oven, BBQ and outdoor stove, will open up a world of possibilities to turn even more summer nights into something very special.

MAKING AN EFFORT IS ALWAYS WORTHWHILE

This is not a view shared by most of society today. From the media we consume to the products we use, a throw-away attitude dominates our modern lifestyles. Yet this exact attitude is the reason why true effort, attention to detail and craftsmanship are so valued by those who seek better. Anything intended to survive for long in this modern world must be built on trust. Trust is something that takes time to achieve. And trust, in business as in life, is also the reward for going the extra mile. At Morso, trust in our name and our products has been built over 163 years. And every day we go that extra mile in everything we do, from concept, to design and onward to the finished product, to make sure that that trust is rewarded and never taken for granted.

A TIMELESS LIFE

Do you remember, when you were a child, how long a single afternoon could feel? How the distance from one moment to the next could stretch to an eternity and your days were filled with so much fun and laughter and also the time to reflect on it all?

Today, as life rushes by, and you rush from one new thing to the next, those moments become fewer and further between. But not for us. At Morso, we create beautiful things that take time to design and manufacture, using skills and knowledge that have taken an even longer time to master. When we're making products designed to last for eternity, time isn't important. The only thing that matters is that you take the time to enjoy them.

WHERE TO LOOK FOR MEANING TO LIFE?

In former times, people would stare into the bonfire flames in the hope that, somewhere in the flames, something mystical and lofty would present a possible answer to this question, asked by the human race from time immemorial. Some may have found their answer – others didn't. But, indeed, most would have agreed that the bonfire was a fine place to look. Another possible provider of an answer would have been the starry sky. But here in Northern Denmark, weather often made the starry sky a tad unpredictable; and then it would be back to the bonfire. Mind you, in the past there weren't that many possibilities; and, when attempting to unravel the major questions in life, one was fairly much left to one's own devices and inward struggles.

Nowadays, this is not the case. Not by a long shot. Provided that they have access to the internet – and they do, most people will probably begin here. Next, they will scroll through the heaps and heaps of good offers, popping up in less than a second. The best offers will always be listed from the top – this is the internet in a nutshell. And it doesn't take much searching before we arrive at some other person's idea of how we should lead our lives. One such idea may well be that we should find a meaning inside ourselves. During that process, what would be more fitting than throwing a log onto the fire, wondering whether better answers may lie hidden in the flickering of the flames as compared with what the flashings of the screen could come up with.

WHAT PRICE A FEELING?

The original N.A.C series

We all possess something that has special meaning. Something that, while valuable to us, would be worthless to someone else. Maybe it's a quirky piece of furniture or an old shirt that holds memories so treasured that we can't bear the thought of actually throwing it away. Some call this sentimental value – a value that cannot be translated into financial measure. For those curious to experience such a feeling, perhaps the best place to start is to purchase something for your home that may outlast you. The original N.A.C. cookware series may be such a purchase. Functional, stylish and with the quality you have come to expect from Morso, this series will truly stand the test of time.

In 1853, the young N. A. Christensen left his occupation as a bookkeeper to begin his iron foundry adventure – an adventure that took its beginning in Nykøbing Mors. Despite fierce competition from other foundries in larger towns, the small handful of blacksmiths, turners and joiners created an icon that extended far beyond this North Jutland town from which it sprung. It was an icon created through innovation, based on design, quality and fine workmanship. And, thus, it will forever be sitting pretty in Danish homes as well as out in the great wide world. An icon that we have all come to know as Morsø.
